

"WHAT WOULD THEY HAVE ME CUT?
WHAT WOULD THEY HAVE ME LEAVE OUT?"

BUDGET

HOUSE REPUBLICANS

REP. JASON SMITH, REPUBLICAN LEADER

When asked to defend a massive spending agenda, President Biden said:

"What would they have me cut? What would they have me leave out?"

We are glad you asked, Mr. President.

The Electric Pipedream

The Biden Administration has turned being out of touch into a governing philosophy.

Take Transportation Secretary Pete Buttigieg who recently told Americans that the way to avoid high gas prices is to just buy an electric vehicle \(EV\).

The Biden Administration's proposed $12,500 subsidy for the purchase of luxury EVs is one of the more obvious giveaways to the wealthy. Couples making \$500,000 per year are eligible for it, and 78% of EV credits today are claimed by those making \$100,000 or more.

But "Mayor Pete" wants us to believe this is somehow targeted at working families who are feeling the pain at the pump?

Meanwhile, the Democrats' Green New Deal policies will eliminate affordable energy in the U.S., making the electricity needed for that EV more expensive too.

So, Americans – at least those that can afford a luxury EV – can trade paying more at the pump with paying more at the plug.

Stay tuned for more.

---

Source: Buttigieg: Families who buy electric vehicles 'never have to worry about gas prices again', The Hill, November 29, 2011
The Three Bs of Biden's Agenda, House Budget Committee Republicans